Col. John A. Matson was re-elected President of the Board; David Macy, Treasurer; James C. Yohn, Secretary.

The Indianapolis Journal says that it does not think Judge McDonald will accept the Presidency of the University. He has a large and increasing practice at the bar, which he would not be likely to willingly abandon at this time.

CLOSE OF THE INDIANA BLIND ASYLUM .- The Indianapolis Sentinel says that the Board of Trustees of the State Blind Asylum were in session on Wednesday and adopted a resolution declaring it inexpedient to go into an election of any of the officers, present meeting, (which by the by-laws is the regular time for such election), except the Superintendent to employ ent, and authorizing the Superintendent to employ only so much help in the way of servants as may be necessary to preserve the authorized by a large property of the superintendent to employ entry and Third in strength of the accused were arrested on bench warrants. THE SOUTERN CONVENTON .- The next Southern convention, it seems, is to meet at Knoxville on the 10th of August. The call is signed by five persons, and the object is stated to be "to spread far and wide, correct, enlarged, and faithful views of our rights and obligations, to unite us together by sacred bonds," and generally to promote the "advancement and security of the South.

The objects are very well, but then these South ern conventions have thus far been a series of humbugs, and we cannot help thinking that the series has been sufficiently extended. What practical good have any of those bodies ever done?

THE U. S. AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY .- TRIAL OF IMPLEMENTS .- We give in another column an interesting and graphic report of the proceedings at Syracuse on the first day, furnished by our special correspondent. It will be read with pleasure even by those who do not feel any particular interest in the trial. Our correspondent gives us some eloquent passages from the remarks made by Governor Morehead on the occasion. Our city, it will be seen, is very fully represented, while in our Chief Magistrate the State has a representative worthy of her.

TROUBLE AT BLOOMINGTON, IND .- A difficulty Judge Hughes and Judge Buskirk, growing out of the examination of some "Regulators," now going on. Hughes is for the defense and Buskirk for the prosecution. The latter struck at the former with a cane, which he warded off, but which hit him on the back of the hand. Hughes drew a pistol and fired at Buskirk, but some one present threw up the barrel as he was in the act of firing, and the ball lodged in

[For the Louisville Bulletin.] T. E. I. I. A.

Ah, Eastern-eyed Leila, come sit by my side,
They tell me, ma mignonne, thou'lt soon be a bride;
Like snow-drifts, beneath the soft light of the moon,
Lie the robes they have wrought thee in you rich saloon And Oman's blue depths have surrendered their pearls To bind thy dark tresses, oh fairest of girls.

They say he is noble who sues for thy hand, They say he is nonice who suces for they hand, And princely in beauty, one born to command; Like a rich swell of music his haughtiest tone, Pride in the deep murmur which calls thee his own; And well may it be, for he links to his line

The blood of the Ind's proudest princes in thine.

Come, darling, come rest on my bosom the while I drink in the light of thy beautiful smile, Till the flames again burn, long extinguished by tears, And gather a radiance to last them for years— Let thy soul brim a goblet of nectar for thine. Be this even my Hebe, oh beauty divine!

And whisper each rosy-wing'd vision of bliss— Thou wilt not? then listen, ma mignonne, to this: I've dreamed that from titles and lover apart, Like a dew-drop close clasp'd in a lily's pure heart, Thou guardest an image the world may not see, Yet "more than the world" or its treasures to thee.

Ha! diamond-eyed bird of an Indian sky. That shaft was well aimed, it unfettered a sigh, And, oh, what a world of despair in the moan, As Pride swooned away on the steps of her throne— Hast thou learned in its bitterness, heart-stricken dove, That the "wealth of the cottage and palace is love?"

Last even thy footsteps were far on the hills, Thy dark eyes drooped down o'er the blue-bo While the call of his king held thy lover away, A minstrel-boy crowned thee with blossoms of May; Hast thou broken thy faith for a troubadour's song, And wrought thy betrothed one so deadly a wrong?

Alas for this earth and its blossoms of love, Buds won from the beautiful, far off above, Like all that is lovely beneath the blue sky,
They bloom but to fade, and they live but to die—
Yet part not thy lips with the murmur, "too late."
Rise, daughter of princes, and conquer thy fate!

Though pearls and bright jewels imband not thy brow. Though pearls and bright jewers musate according to the lips will be pure from the perjurer's vow;
The laurel which twines in thy boy-lover's hair
Is glory enough for thy forehead to wear,
And the light of his love all the gems will outshine
Through centuries won from thy father's proud line.

police. The Times of Wednesday says:

The excitement occasianed by the riot in the Seventeenth Ward continued yesterday, and had not subsided at the hour of our going to press this morning. German excitement is peculiar. It is slow of birth, and lives long. The Germans neglected their usual avocations yesterday. They mustered in strong force about the lower avenues, all armed, and discussed the affairs of the preceding days. All appeared animated with a strong feeling of revenge. They assembled about the house where the body of Muller lay, and awaited the result of the Coroner's examination. Then, assembling in a body, they attended the funeral, taking a circuitous route to the ferry which leads to the Calvary Cemetary, bearing aloft a banner inscribed "Death to the Metropolitan Police."

At 7½ o'clock a large "meeting of the citizens of the Seventeenth ward" was held at the theater corner of Avenue A and Fourth street. Speeches were made by Dr. Merkle, ex-Coroner Wilhelm, John Cochrane, and others. Peace was advocated, and redress recommended at the ballot-box. The police and military remained on duty all night, but neither were called upon to quell disorder. A few arrests of disorderly persons

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The river is at a staud here, with 4 feet 4 inches water in the canal. We noticed the dredge-boat at work in the canal yesterday, bringing up immense quantities of mud. The channel of the river below will be in a better condition a week hence than it is now, as it is gradually washing out.

Notwithstanding the low water, the great packet Telegreph No. 3 is still running between this city and Cincinnati. She is the mailboat to-day. This is owing mostly to the skill with which she is managed by Capt. Hildreth.

The following we find in a St. Louis paper:

On Monday evening last a singular affair happened on board the steamer Ohio, which lay at the St. Louis landing. It was stated that smoke was seen to issue from the hold, and as it was known that there were several kegs of gunpowder on board, the utmost consternation took possession of those present, and caused a very general stampede. After a little delay, some bold fellow jumped into the hold to extinguish the fire, if any, and found nothing burning. Further investigation elicited the following facts: that in rolling the powder forward, a quantity of it had escaped from an insecure keg, and the supposition is, that one of the deck hands, a fiend in human shape, discovered the train and fired it, with the expectation of gratifying his terrible appetite for destruction, by blowing up the boat and all on board. Had the thing not providentially failed, the neighboring boats would have been shattered, and a large number of persons killed.

THE SUGAR AND COTTON CROPS .- The New Orleans Delta of the 11th says:

We are receiving favorable accounts of the sugar cane. With the present prospect of 325,000 hhds., if fully realized, the money market will soon feel its favorable effects. Cotton is doing very well, as far as it has grown, but it must not be overlooked that the month of babkwardness checks all hopes of anything more than an average yield. "Spiritualism."—A party of gentlemen assembled at the Winthrop House on Monday evening, by invitation of Dr. H. F. Gardner, for the purpose of witnessing some of the so called spiritual manifestations, in the presence of Mrs. Brown, formerly Miss Fox, and her sister, Miss Kate Fox—the original "Fox girls." One of the editors of this paper was present. Most of the other editors who were connected with the weekly press. The circle numbered just twelve persons. As soon as they were seated raps were heard, and it was proposed that their intelligence should be tested by questions.—This was done by several of the company.

So far as the questions by the editor of this paper were concerned, the exhibition was entirely unsuccessful.

It was admitted by Dr. Gardner and by Mrs.

It was admitted by Dr. Gardner and by Mrs. Brown that the intelligences of the evening were unsatisfactory. Some experiments designed to prove that the ladies had no agency in producing the raps, closed the proceedings.

UNITED STATES AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

SYRACUSE, July 14, 1857.

This is the opening day of the great national trial of Reapers and Mowers, and a hotter day never shone. The sun, like a malignant eye, has been pouring his fiercest rays upon the devoted heads of the thousands who have come from every State in the Union to attend this great trial. Heat and dust, the clanking of the machines and the music of the band, the shouts of the marshals, together with the many undistinguishable sounds that blend in one hoarse murmur, have so bewildered me, as I have picked myself out from among the legs of the horses or made leaps that would astonish the finest gymnast or acrobat at Franconi's; as I have saved myself from being literally cut to pieces by some monster of a machine as it made its unaccountable evolutions while its sharp teeth were playing like flashes of lightning as it came sweeping onward across the field, laying low the clover tops, and evidently under the impression that all flesh is grass, making at the legs of the body of reporters, who, in their anxiety to serve the "many-headed" public, came near losing their own legs in the service; I, being one of this body, have become so bewildered that it is almost impossible for me to gather, from the few jottings down in my note, the material for a respectable letter. This task however I will now undertake, and endeavor to give you, in something like regular order, the proceedings up to this time.

order, the proceedings up to this time.

The various committees have been on the spot for some days, perfecting their preparatory arrangements.

some days, perfecting their preparatory arrangements.

Prominent among these are the President of the Association, the Hon. Marshall P. Wilder, a fine looking, elderly gentleman, of great simplicity and courtesy of manner, but a man of untiring energy. Then comes the fine looking, the witty, the omnipresent Secretary, whose name is now known the country through, and as it is written on the books of the Brookes House, the headquarters of the committee, reads thus: "Ben Perley Poore, of Newburyport, wheelbarrow town." Now every one of your readers knows, I suppose, what that means; if not, let them ask the first man they meet. Then comes Mr. French, the Treasurer, and the indefatigable Olcott, who, by the way, is one of the pleasantest, most intelligent young men that it has ever been my good fortune to meet.

Gov. Morehead and daughter arrived from Niagara yesterday, and on the same train came James Buchanan, of the firm of Peter & Buchanan of Louisville. The other Kentuckians who have arrived to the President of

of the High School, and Dr. Moore, the patentee of the Kentucky Harvester.

In addition to this party, I should mention the name of Mr. Benj. Allston, the son of Gov. Allston, of South Carolina. Almost every State is represented, and some by large delegations.

Our party consists of the above-named gentlemen, and their names are a sufficient guaranty that men, and their names are a sumcent guaranty that the party is as pleasant as a party can possibly be. Yesterday little was done at the grounds except entering and weighing the machines. This and all the preliminary business being complete, we took an early start and with the above named party started in an open "bus" for the field. After viewing the different machines that had been entered and examine the core different and very very integration between the control of the control o in at opon different machines that had been entered and examining two very different and yet very ingenious hay presses that were upon the ground, we sauntered to the reporters' hut, and, having followed half the advice of Longfellow, in which he tells us "to labor," concluded to give in our adherence to the poet's present which concludes by commending us "to contract the contract of the poet's present which concludes by commending us "to contract the poet's present which concludes by commending us "to contract the poet's present which concludes by commending us "to contract the poet's present which concludes the present the poet's present which concludes the present th cept, which concludes by commending us "to wait." instantaneous discharge of heavy cannon on the other warued us that "something was coming;" the aforesaid said "something" proved to be the escort, a fine body of dragoons of this city, under command of Capt. Hatch, and a handsome carriage, containing their Excellencies, Gov. King, of N. Y., and Gow. Morehead, of Ky.

This was the signal for the exercises to commence; so we mounted the flag-covered stand appropriated to the speaker of the day, President Wilder, the Governors, and, of course, the reporters. Next followed a procession of the machines around the field, which, upon coming again before the Speaker's stand, halted in line, when, a large concourse having assembled upon the extensive seats, the President delivered his address, which was received with great applanse by the assembly, who then filled the air with their shouts for a speech from Gov. King. His Excellency responded in the happiest manner and with great effect.

Gov. Morehead was then called upon, and for some ten or fifteen minutes that immense throng was perfectly exceptioned by the elevence and feeling exhibwith the speech itself. I will try to recall some few sentences to give your readers an opportunity to feel as proud of the Governor as did the Kentucky delegation who heard him.

After saying that, like Gov. King, nothing was further from his thoughts than being called upon to make a speech, still that he was glad of an opportunity to say a few words to this assemblage. "Kentucky," said the Governor, "is eminently an agricultural State, and his presence here is owing to the urgent solicitations of his friends; that he had come on expressly to attend this great trial, that his presence might express the strong interest that his presence might express the strong interest felt in Kentucky for the success of this great national society, especially as Louisville was selected as the location for the great fair, as Syracuse had been chosen for the great trial of machines.

dark and bloody soil that was once the soil of Kentucky, but which now presents the blooming aspect of the garden of the United States.

"Should it ever be necessary to shed fraternal blood, and I pray to God that the hour may never come, the soil of Kentucky may again become dark and bloody, but, standing as she does between the North and South, with one hand she grasps the North and with the other the South, exclaiming 'The Union shall not be sundered; not a stream trickles down our hill-sides, not a leaf flutters in the breeze, not even a breath of air stirs that is not redolent with devotion to the Union.' Yes, even the motto upon the arms of Kentucky is this notto upon the arms of Kentucky is this-"United we stand, divided we fall."

This speech, or rather a much better, of which this is but a skeleton, was received with thunders of applause, and very appropriately finished the speech making of the day.

applause, and very appropriately finished the speech making of the day.

The committees and invited guests then adjourned to the President's tent, where a very nice lunch was served up to hungry and thirsty.

We had quite an amusing scene that has given us a hearty laugh while at lunch. Several of our party, each armed with a big sandwich, were assuaging the pangs of hunger, combining therewith our usual modicum of fun, when a tall gentleman steps up to Mr. Mallory, who you know is somewhere near the Governor in size, and congratulated him upon the happy effect produced by his very eloquent speech. The gentleman addressed understanding his interlocutor to compliment him as a Kentuckian upon the success of our Governor's effort, remarked, in reply, that the sentiments expressed by the Governor were the sentiments of all Kentuckians; but at the mention of the Governor the tall man started, took one look at the worthy President of the Southwestern Agricultural Society, and immediately started for the other end of the tent where the true Governor Morehead was towering above the crowd. It is prehaps unnecessary to add that Governor Mallory is not of Kentuckians is disbanded.

Mr. A. G. Munn, who has been here since Saturday, is upon the committee of arrangements, and is, as usual, as busy and withal as pleasant and companionable as ever.

There is a prospect of the trial lasting some days into next week, and I will send you everything of importance that course.

Mr. Munro, one of the wealthy citizens of the place, holds a reception for Gov. King, his guest, to-night; and a large party comes off at the residence of Hon. H. Baldwin, ex-Mayor of the city.

A discussion on agriculture takes place every evening, and thus, with this and the prospective parties, the time is pretty well filled.

VIRGINIA ILLUSTRATED .- The many thousand readers of Harper's Monthly have become thorcoughly acquainted with the artistic skill, literary excellence, and gentlemanly spirit of Mr. D. S. Strother, who, under the signature of "Porte Crayon," has been depicting with rare fidelity the chief scenes of "old Virginia." These interesting sketches have been collected and form a delightful octavo volume. They give the very best idea that it is possible to save of the Old Dominion. Her natural scenery, her improvements, her every gradation of society are depicted in the most striking colors.

Porte Crayon is not only a man of genius, but of a strictly practical character. He poetizes and sketches and tells facts and makes figures with the same rare felicity.

"Virginia Illustrated" is for sale in this city by Morton & Griswold, agents for the Messrs. Harper of New York.

A writer in a morning paper has made the im portant discovery that a short article which appeared in the Bulletin as editorial was taken from the New York Times. The article referred to was a mere news item, and these are occasionally copied by every paper as original. It is a notorious fact that the very paper which alludes to it has for years and years lived entirely from its exchanges-not contented with copying paragraphs from them but whole columns as original. It has an editor now. He need not fear however that any of his articles will be given by cotemporaries as original with them.

A Noble Boy .- A boy named Narcisse Lamontague, aged thirteen years, saved eight children from the wreck of the steamer Montreal. It was by seizing the door of a stateroom, placing the children upon it, and pushing it before him while he swam. that, at different trips, he succeeded in landing on a dry rock, or on the beach, eight of the survivors, who would otherwise have met, with hundreds of others, a watery grave.

A NEW NOVEL BY JAMES .- This is a delightful announcement to the multitude throughout the country who admire Mr. G. P. R. James and his peculiar style of novel writing. Leonora D'Orco is his latest effort, and abounds in that strictly good writing and excellent taste always characteristic of the distinguished "solitary horseman" novelist.

Morton & Griswold have the work.

THE NATIONAL HOTEL ENDEMIC .- The N. Y. Academy of Medicine have made a report on the singular and disastrous endemic which prevailed at the National Hotel at Washington last spring. This report is very emphatic in tracing the source of the disorder to malarial influences.

ARMY MOVEMENTS IN UTAH .- The War Department has just issued orders No. 12, in accordance with which the arrangements for concentrating the froops in Utah are to be made. The most important points are embraced in the following:

1. The 2d dragoons, 5th infantry, and 10th infantry, as they assemble at Fort Leavenworth, will be prepared, with the battery of the 4th artillery now at that post, to march to and establish a post at or near the Salt Lake City, Territory of Utah.

Brevet Brigadier General Harney will command the whole force above described, continuing on duty according to his brevet rank—and, at the earliest practicable day, will put the troops in route—but will, until that time, retain his present command of troops in Kansas.

2. On the 1st of January next, after the Territory of Utah shall have been entered by the troops, it will constitute a new and separate military department, to be styled the Department of Utah, and to be commanded by Brevet Brigadier General Harney, or the senior present, who will, from the time of leaving Fort Leavenworth, be the commander of a separate army in the field, within the sense of the Stat Article of War.

3. The 5th infantry, ordered temporarily to Jef ferson barracks, will, as soon as practicable after its arrival there, be put in route by its commander, by water, er, in part, by railroad, for Fort Leaven-

6. Under the authority of the Secretary of War, the post at Salt Lake City, when established, and any other posts, not exceeding two in addition, that may be established in Utah, will be included am the "chaplain posts" and "double ration posts" the army.

WROUGHT IRON DIRECT FROM THE ORE .- A New York correspondent of the Richmond Enquirer announces the success of the process patented by M. S. Salter, Esq., of that city. The writer says:

A furnace, on the new plan, costing $1500, has now been several weeks in operation, within fifty miles of this city, turning out daily two tuns of pure iron, in blooms, worth $50 per ton at a cost of $20 per tun. Large capitalists, dealers in iron, are beginning to "smell a rat," and this very day a contract has been completed with a large iron house face, to put up two large furnaces (one in Orange country N. Y., the other in Westchester county, N. Y.), each of which, at a cost of under $2,000 apiece, at is expected will turn out six tuns of pure wrought wan in a day. It is a revolution indeed. The patentee heartily acknowledges his indebtedness to Dreate heartily entee heartily acknowledges his indebtedness to Dr. William Turner of this city, in aiding to make his patent effective and available.

To GET A HUSBAND WRITE A NOVEL.—So Mrs. Loudon got her famous husband, Loudon, the ency-lopedist. Mrs. L. thus narrates the facts: "About this time, Mr. Loudon formed his first acquaintance with me. My father died in 1824, had finding, on sett me. My father died in 1824, had inding, on the winding up of his affairs, that it would be necessary for me to do something for my support, I had written a strange, wild novel, called 'The Mummy,' in which I had laid the scene in the 22d century, and attempted to predict the state of improvement to which this country might possibly arrive. Mr. London chanced to see the review of this book in Aouden chanced to see the review of this book in the Literary Gazette, and as, among other things. I had mentioned a steam-plow, it attracted his attention, and he procured the work from a circulating library. He read it, and was so much pleased with it, that he published, in the Gardener's Magazine for 1828, a notice of it, under the head of 'Hints for Improvements;' and he had from that time a great desire to become acquainted with the author, whom he supposed to be a man. In February, 1830, Mr. Loudon chanced to mention this wish to a lady, a friend of his, who happened to be acquainted with me, and who immediately invited him to a party, where she promised him he should have the wished for introduction. It may be easily supposed that he was surprised to find the author of the book a woman; but I believe that, from that evening, he formed an attachment to me, and, in fact, we were married on the 14th of the following September."

THE SCARED AFRICAN.-The brig Flora, Yates, of Newcastle, Maine, arrived on Monday from Dix Cove (West Coast of Africa), May 26, from Dix Cove (West Coast of Africa), hay 20, bringing among her crew a native Krooman, who had been taken on board at Dix Cove, as a foremast hand. The fears of this native African had been excited on the passage by the sailors, who gave him to understand that he would be sold as a slave when he reached the white man's country. When the vessel hauled into the Atlantic dock, a monkey on board attracted a curious crowd, but was forgotten soon by the superior attractions of the African, with a pair of huge ivory bracelets upon his wrists. Se-ing so many white and strange faces he became alarmed, and running into the forecastle threw off alarmed, and running into the forecastle threw off all his clothing except a blue jumper, and then sprung into the rigging, and with the agility of a monkey ran up to the fore royal yard, where he perched himself, and by his manner bid defiance to all white folks.

A naked African in such a position soon drew a large throng of spectators; the mate tried every means to induce him to come down, but without effect; to the mate's commands he would make but one reply, "me dies, me dies," and by his gestures intimating that he would cut his throat before he would be taken. He remained on the yard for about three hours, the excited crowd hooting, yelling, and throwing stones at the poor creature, to increase his alarm of course. He finally told the mate he would come down if "white man go 'way," or "Cap'n come." The vessel was hauled away from the dock to get rid of the mob, but at length three "bumpers," or longshoremen, went on board, and in defiance of the mate's remonstrances. climbed the rigging to force the Krooman down. Their efforts rigging to force the Krooman down. from one yardarm to another and sprang about among the lifts and braces like a cat, defying all attempts to reach him. At one time he dropped from the outer end of the royal yardarm and caught the topgallant lift, alighting safely upon the yard below.

These wretches, finding he was too spry for them aloft, then descended to the deck, and, pushing the mate aside, seized the topgallant braces and began to surge, to pu'l and slack up and swing the yard back and forth in the most violent manner, the negro clinging with might and main to the yard and lift, the crowd on the dock the mean time yelling like fiends, and awaiting to see him thrown from the yard. The police were called, but could not or would not disperse the rowdies. At last, worn out by his exertions to save his life, as a sudden jerk of the braces was given by the scoundrels on deck, the poor fellow was thrown from the yard, and, striking the braces, fell into the water, a distance of seventy or eighty feet. He barely escaped the rail of the vessel in his descent; had he struck it, or fallen on the deck, he would have been killed instantly. Some boatmen now attempted to rescue him from the water, but he dove as quick as a flash, and, swimming under water, came up a long distance off.

They pursued him however and esizing him by under water, came up a long distance off.

They pursued him, however, and, seizing him by the ivory rings on his wrists, endeavored to get him into the boat; but he resisted with all his might, and cried out, "Me die! Me die!" He was finally got on board, and, to satisfy him that their motives got on board, and, to satisfy him that their motives were friendly, one of the boatmen pulled off his own shirt and pantaloons and put them upon him. This immediately quieted his fears, and he surrendered himself to his new friends, who, to escape the mob, rowed him to the cutter Washington, where he was received and cared for by Lieut. Kellum. He is called John Davis, and made our reporter understand that he came from Glentaboo-taboo; that he had been two months and a half on board the brig, and had not been paid his wages. Capt. Faunce will inquire into his case, and see that the poor African has justice done him.

Tir-Birs .- "When a fellow is too lazy to work," says Sam Slick, "he paints his name over the door, and calls it a tavern or grocery, and makes the whole neighborhood as lazy as himself."

A lady of rank complaining that her husband was dead to fashionable amusements, he replied: "But then, my dear, you make me alive to the expense."

The Chicago Journal says that by the term "strong-minded woman" it means "one who spoils a very respectable woman in vain endeavors to become a very ordinary man."

"It is a solemn thing to be married," said Aunt Rachael to her niece. "It is a good deal more sol-emn not to be," said the merry girl.

When you are disposed to be vain of your mental acquirements, look up to those who are more accomplished than yourself, that you may be fired with emulation; but when you feel dissatisfied with your circumstances, look down on those beneath you, that you may learn contentment.

Curiosity Baffled.—"I say, old boy," cried Paul Pry to an excavator in North Shields, whom he espied at the bottom of a yawning gulf, "what are you digging there?" "A big hole," the old boy replied. Paul was not to be put off in this fashiout "What are you going to do with the hole?" "Going to cut it into small holes," replied the old boy, "and retail them to farmers for gate posts." Keep Your Own Door Clean.—"John," said a clergyman to one of his flock, "you should become a teetotaler—you have been drinking again to day." "Do you never take a wee drap yourself, sir?" in-quired John. "Ah, but John, you must look at your circumstances and mine." "Verra true," quoth circumstances and mine." "Verra true," quoti John, "but, sir, can you tell me how the streets o Jerusalem were keepit sae clean?" "No, John, cannot tell you that." "Weel, sir, it was just be cause every one keepit his own door clean!" replied John with an air of triumph.

One to Ten Thousand .- Frederick the Great wrote to one of his generals—"I send you with sixty thou-sand men against the enemy." On numbering the troops, it was found there were but fifty thousand. The officer expressed his surprise at such a mistake on the part of his sovereign. Frederick's reply was—"I counted you for ten thousand men."

Mr. Justice Story of Massachusetts, and his friend, Hon. Daniel Webster, with ladies, in company, were once toiling up the same steep, when the former, by way of beguilement, commenced in merry vein to introduce Mr. W. to the trees that stood by the pathway. "This, Mr. Webster, is Monsieur Oak; this is Miss Elm, and this is Madame Birch, at your service." "Ob!" interrupted Mr. Webster, "forbear all introduction there; I was made perfectly acquainted with the lady in my school-boy days."

The laws of nature are just but terrible. There is no weak mercy in them. Cause and consequence are inseparable and inevitable. The fire burns, the water drowns, the air consumes, the earth buries. And perhaps it would be well for our race if the punishment of crimes against the laws of man were as ishment of crimes against the laws of man were as inevitable as the punishment of crimes against the laws of nature—were man as unerring in his judgments as nature.—Longfellow.

A SHARP JOCKEY.—An incident worth noticing coursed in connection with the Hampton races. cocurred in connection with the Hampton races. It is said to be an arrangement of these races that the owners shall, at starting, set a price upon their horses, and all that they realize above that sum shall go to the riders should they win. One horse known to be swift, was considered perfectly useless, however, on account of its vicious temper. It would bolt, swerve, rear, do anything but run straight, and it was fully expected it would carry its rider into the Thames. It was entered for the chief cups, and its owner set its value at the small figure of £40. The jockey who was to ride it had a head on his shoulders and brain in his head, which he had no idea of getting concussed or dashed out by a horse; and so just before starting he put on a pair of blinkers. The horse under that influence ran as true as Blink Bonney herself could have done, won every race in which it started, and rose in price from £40 to £700, all from the shrewd thought of taming it with blinkers.

BURNING OF THE NEW YORK STATE INSANE ASYLUM.—We condense from a lengthy account in the Utica Telegraph the following interesting particulars of the burning of the Insane Asylum, at Utica, on the 14th inst.:

At the time of the alarm, there were no patients in that portion of the main building where the fire was first discovered, and no efforts were made to rewas first discovered, and no efforts were made to re-move them from where they were confined to a place of safety until all hopes of saving the grand en-trance to the massive structure had been considered as futile. The different keepers had all they could do to quiet the fears of the inmates of their respec-tive wards, thus leaving the subjugation of the flames to a few persons, who were, however, unequal to the task.

flames to a few persons, who were, however, unequal to the task.

A number of firemen dropped down from sheer exhaustion, one of whom was the foreman of No. 2 of Utica, Rees J. Turner.

The military companies were ordered out to protect the property carried out into the open grounds about the Asylum, and to guard the lunatics, who were sent back into the adjacent woods.

The roads and grounds leading to and in the vicinity of the Asylum were literally crammed and jammed with human beings. All the available space for a mile within the vicinity of the conflagration was filled with horses and carriages, buggies and hacks, carts, and everything possessing wheels sufficient for a horse to draw that could roll the people in from the surrounding country.

In from the surrounding country.

But how shall we attempt to describe the sorrow ful picture of the poor lunatics themselves. The horror depicted in their countenances—their despair—their wild, mad ravings—their incoherent exclamations. their wild, mad ravings—their incoherent exclama-tions and ejaculations as contrasted with the loud, wild crackling of the flames and crashing of the fallen timbers! Ah, it was a horrible sight! The prayers and supplications—the loud curses—the boisterous laugh, sickening the beholders at the sight of unthroned reason—the menacing scowl—togeth-er with the thousand other acts and parts of acts which go to fill up the measure of the monomaniac's which go to fill up the measure of the monomaniac's life, were never so vividly portrayed as to-day, when brought out under the terror aroused within them at the sight of this mighty conflagration. Poor creatures! they are strangers to sympathy, from their pitiable and helpless condition of mind; but the tear will not refuse to moisten the cheek of hu-manity as they look upon the melancholy picture ust witnessed.

When the corps arrived upon the ground the greatest confusion prevailed—men running for medcal assistance for the burned, others seeking help ical assistance for the burned, others seeking help to prevent the inmates from escaping from the buildings and yards. On being formed, the company marched to the grove in the rear of the Asylum, and there mounted guard. About two hundred of the patients, mostly females, were placed under the surveillance of the company. They at first in squads made efforts to escape, but, on being firmly ordered to remain quiet and not attempt to escape, they became reconciled to their quarters, sat down in groups, and apparently were pleased with the excitement and confusion.

Notwithstanding the care and caution exercised by the persons who entered the buildings, some of

Among the number of those seriously injured, while combatting the flames this morning, and rendering every assistance which heroism could inspire, was Dr. L. F. Rose, one of our most respectable city physicians. His injuries are chiefly confined to his back and thighs, and by the assiduous attentions of Drs. Russell and Day he is now in a comfortable state, at his residence on Bridge street. Some of the patients became very noisy and ex-

The city has granted the use of the new Hospital to the managers of the Asylum, and some sixty patients will be removed temporarily. At 2 o'clock, the patients in the grove were marched, in charge of the corps, to the Asylum. Owing to the efficient measures taken by the guard, no difficulty was experienced in keeping the patients within the limits; and, notwithstanding the cunning expedients resorted to, to obtain egress, not a single patient escaped.

"Brandy Straight."-Sol. Jones was a stage driver tor many years before the railroads had become plentiful, and he has followed various occupations since. His principal employment now is drinking strong liquors, and his nose reflects constantly the "everlasting bonfire." One day last week Solstepped into one of our fashionable restaurants and called for brandy. The decanter was handed to him and he poured out a tumbler nearly full. With a look of aversion at the water nitcher which was and he poured out a tumbler hearly full. With a look of aversion at the water pitcher which was standing near, he tossed off the brandy and set down his glass with a strong expression of disgust upon his humorous countenance. "Anything the matter with that brandy?" inquired the bar-tender. "Yes," was the gruff reply. "What ails it?" asked Boniface. "Why, confound it," said Sol., "I kin

Divine Blessing.—Remember, always, that the success of your callings and earthly employments is by divine blessing, not human diligence alone. "Thou shalt remember the Lord thy God; for it is he that giveth the power to get wealth." The devil himself was so far orthodox as to acknowledge it. "Hast not thou made a hedge about him, and about his house, and all that he hath on every side? Thou hast blessed the work of his hands." Remember, therefore, your affairs to God by prayer, and touch not that which you cannot recommend to God by prayer for a blessing.—Rev. John Flavel. Human History.—The inventions of printing, of gunpowder, and the mariner's compass were too mean affairs for history to trace. She was bowing before kings and warriors. She had volumes for the plots and quarrels of Leicester and Essex in the reign of Elizabeth, but not a page for Shakspeare; and, if Bacon had not filled an office, she would hardly have recorded his name, in her anxiety to preserve the deeds and sayings of that Solomon of his age, James the First.—W. E. Channing.

A Futing Rebuke.—Having in my youth notions of severe piety, says a celebrated Persian writer, I used to rise in the night to watch, pray, and read the Koran. One night, as I was engaged in these exercises, my father, a man of practical virtue, awoke while I was reading. "Behold," said I to him, "thy other children are lost in irreligious slumber, while I alone wake to praise God." "Son of my soul," he answered, "it is better to sleep, than to wake to remark the faults of thy brethren."

What is Art?—The outward expression in form or color, of certain great truths connected with our higher nature; the manifestation in symbols of the Primal Beauty, the perception of which and the sentiments for which belong to our common humanity. The Art sentiment is as really a part of perfect human nature as the power of thought, the affections of the heart, the sympathies of the soul for those kindred to itself in creation and intention.

A Hint for the Season.—The simplest and best way of preserving woolens through the summer from the destruction of the moths, is to wrap them well up after brushing and beating them, in cotton or linen cloths. The moth can pass neither. Two covers, well wrapped around and secured from the air, will be effectual. An old sheet will answer, and save all expense of camphor, &c. Rev. Morgan Dix.

Gamey.—A gentleman complimented a lady on her improved appearance. "You are guilty of flattery," said the lady. "Not so," replied the gentleman, "for I vow you are as plump as a partridge!" "At first," replied the lady, "I thought you guilty of flattery only, but now I find you are actually making game of me."

Dr. King's Dispensary

DR. A. KING, a practitioner of New York for the last thirty years, has opened a Dispensary on Market, bet. First and Second, nearly opposite the Graham House, Lou-siville, for the treatment of Private Diseases, such as Gon. orrheas, Syphilis, and all diseases of the skin and other de rangements growing out of neglect or imperfect cure. His long experience and success enable him to act with confidence. All those who may confide their cases to him may rest assured of having the disease effectually cured and every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

STRUGUEURS of old or recent date effectually cured in a

STRIGTURES of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuance of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

SEMINAL WHAKNESS.—Particular attention will be given to this disease and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of inconsiderate youth and excessive indulgence of the passions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unift for either business or society, and causing premature old age.

EFF Persons abroad, by writing and stating their cases, with a fee enclosed (post-paid), can have the medicine sent to their address, with necessary directions for using the same.

A STORM ON THE PRAIRIE.—We witnessed the most terrific storm at Mattoon, Ill., on Monday evening last, that has ever fallen to our lot to behold. We were standing upon the platform, about 7 o'clock, when a heavy cloud was fast approaching from the west. From its yellowish tinge we apprehended considerable wind. A freight train had just arrived from the west and the passenger train from the south had just come in sight, and was, perhaps, at least six miles distant. The passenger train from the west was fast rising above the horizon, and seemed like a dark speck upon the ocean. Just as the west was fast rising above the norizon, and seemed like a dark speck upon the ocean. Just as the southern train arrived, a current of air swept past, south of the town, carrying a train of dust which was so dense as to resemble the blackest of stone-coal smoke. On the north was another more terrific in appearance. These two currents indeed stone-coal smoke. On the north was another more terrific in appearance. These two currents indeed looked frightful beyond description. A perfect deluge of rain followed in the wake of these dusty and ugly-looking currents, and an awful wind hurried things along ahead of railroad speed.

As the freight train was endeavoring to switch off of the main track the wind lifted the cars from the road, one of which fell across the track. During these exciting and impatient minutes, the cryof fire! fire! was heard above the din of old Boreas's savage manifestations, as he pitched the shingles savage manifestations, as he pitched the shingles and plank is every direction, and caused the build-ings to tremble like feathers. The tinner who was at work upon the large three-story brick hotel, in his hurry to reach terra firma, left everything be-hind, and his little stove for heating his soldering irons had turned over and set fire to the roof—but a few minutes was only necessary to put a check to the devouring inclination of the flames. After the hardest of the rain was over, we beheld

After the hardest of the rain was over, we beheld a beautiful display of the zig-zag maneuvering of electricity. We believe that all philosophers teach us that lightning strikes upward first; and here, upon this open sea of space, we had a practical illustration. It presented a grand display similar to rockets and Roman candles. Sometimes shooting up, even into the clouds, then down, describing a beautiful rainbow curve. Some explosions would dart along about five feet above the earth, in a serpentine course, and in fact in every conceivable shape.

course, and in fact in every conceivable shape.

The most damage sustained by this storm was in prostrating the small grain. The wheat was thrown flat upon the ground—it would have been ready to cut in a few days—and there is but little of it that possesses sap enough to cause it to rise again.

SWINDLING AN EDITOR. - The Worcester Spy gives an interesting account of the beginning, progress, and end of an extensive fraud upon Col. Wm. Schouler, of Ohio, formerly editor of the Boston Atlas, and through the use of his name upon other parties, also, by a citizen of that (Worcester) county:

Several months since Mr. Schouler, while residing in Cincinnati as one of the editors and proprietors of the Cincinnati Gazette, made the acquaintance of a man from Shrewsbury, in this county, named Henry W. Baldwin, by whose representations of lucrative business, through the establishment of a large com-mission house in Cincinnati, for the sale of eastern manufactures, he was induced to sell out his interest in the Cazette, and make come other presentations. in the Gazette, and make some other preparations, with a view of forming a business connection with with a view of forming a business connection with Baldwin for the purpose above mentioned. Having so far accomplished his purposes, Baldwin's next representation was, that it would be necessary for him to go to Baltimore and Philadelphia to solicit consignments for the proposed firm. He stated to Schouler, as appeared by the examination, at Worcester, on Tuesday, that he had some debts to pay in the above named cities, and, though possessed of abundant means in notes and other securities, he yet needed a sum of about two thou-possessed of abundant means in notes and other securities, he yet needed a sum of about two thorsand and two hundred dollars in ready cash.

So entirely had Baldwin secured the confidence of Col. Schouler at this time, that he unhesitatingly drew his check for the amount, and gave it to Baldwin, not even taking a note for the money. Baldwin subsequently came East, no copartnership having been formeed, but, as was understood, with a view to consult with the leading New England manufacturers, and then to arrange the terms of copartnership afterwards.

After some considerable time had elapsed, Mr. Schouler's suspicions were aroused to the fact that all was not right, and he determined to come on himself and ascertain the whereabouts of Baldwin, and to recover his money. To make a long story short, he found his worst suspicions as to Baldwin's rascality more than realized as soon as he reached New York, for he found at the Astor House a car New York, for he found at the Astor House a card posted up, purporting to have been issued from the commission house of Schouler, Baldwin, & Co., a firm which really had no existence. He here had an interview with Baldwin, and denounced him for his rascality, to which the latter coolly responded that if he (Schouler) did not like the copartnership, he could put an advertisement in the parers ansureing a dissolution.

Arriving in Boston, he learned other facts connected with Baldwin that left no doubt upon his

Arriving in Boston, he learned other facts connected with Baldwin that left no doubt upon his mind that he had been the victim of an unprincipled sharper, that his $2,200 had virtually been stolen from him, that Baldwin had used his name in connection with his own for a large amount, as members of the new firm, which all the while had no existence, and that some of the notes so used had been returned from Cincinnati protested. Five of these notes, amounting to near five thousand dollars in all, dated at Cincinnati, were passed off in this city by Baldwin, in payment of his own private debts, to Messrs. Wm. M. Bickford and Wm. Barker, and, not knowing the nature of the case, Col. S. was arrested upon those claims.

This brought matters at once to a crisis, and led to the immediate arrest of Baldwin, who was found at Shrewsbury and brought to this city, where, after a lengthy examination, at which the above facts were elicited, he was committed to prison in default of bail in the sum of $6,000, to answer to the charge of having committed the crime of forgery. The whole evidence submitted in the case went to show that Col. Schouler was entirely guiltless in the matter, that no copartnership had been formed, that he had no knowledge of the game of deception and rascality that Baldwin was carrying on at his expense, and that he was entirely ignorant that his name had been used by Baldwin until after the notes were protested for non-payment.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

THURSDAY EVENING, July 16, 1857. Present-E. D. Weatherford, President, and all he members except Alderman Rousseau.

A communication was read from the Mayor transmitting the returns for the late election in the Fourth, Fifth, and Seventh wards, and thereupon a report awarding certificates of election to Henry J. Lyons, awarding certificates of election to Henry J. Lyons, Councilman from Fourth ward; J. W. Kalfus, Alderman from Fifth ward, and Thos. H. Crawford, Alderman, and B. W. Pollard, Councilman, from the Seventh ward, was adopted.

Thos. H. Crawford, E-q., member elect from the Seventh ward, appeared and presented a certificate signed by A. W. Waller, a Justice of the Peace for Jefferson county, showing that the oath of office had been administered to him, and thereupon he took his seat.

The following message was read from the Mayor: MAYOR'S OFFICE, July 13, 1857.

To the Board of Aldermen:

To the Board of Aldermen:

GENTLEMEN: I withhold my approval from it and return with my objections the within resolution. By Ray's pump contract with the city, he is not to be paid for new platforms around old pumps. Ray and Mr. G. W. Griffy agreed in my presence that the platform charged for at Eleventh and Chestnut streets is around an old pump. Ray refused to make the deduction of $4 charged for it, though against the contract, and I therefore disapprove this item. Mr. G. W. Griffy certified this item, the contract not being before him when he did so.

W. S. PILCHER, Mayor.

Whereupon the resolution allowing S. G. Ray $46 25 was adopted, the Mayor's objections to the contrary notwithstanding, by the following vote: Yeas—Mr. President Weatherford and Messrs. Hall, Burton, Duvall, Crawford, and Howard—6.

Nays-None.
The following message was read from the Mayor: MAYOR'S OFFICE, July 13, 1857.

MAYOR'S OFFICE, July 13, 1857.

To the Board of Aldermen:
GENTLEMEN: I withhold my approval from the allowance of $270 in favor of S. G. Ray for 135 pumps for two months at $12 apiece for a year, because he is allowed for four pumps too many, as appears by certificate of G. W. Griffy, Street Inspector of the Western District, at the foot of Ray's account. Eight dollars should therefore be deducted, and the allowance should only be $262 and not $270. Ray refuses to make the correction, and I return the resolution to your Board.

See Griffy's statement hereto attached.

W. S. PILCHER, Mayor.

Whereupon said resolution allowing said Ray $270 was adopted, the Mayor's objections to the contrary notwithstanding, by the following vote: Yeas—Mr. President Weatherford, and Messrs. Hall, Burton, Crawford, and Howard—5.

Nay—Mr. Duvall—1.

The following veto message was read from the Mayor, to wit:

Mayor, to-wit:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, LOUISVILLE, July 13, 1857.

To the General Council of the City of Louisville: GENTLEMEN: I herewith return the license granted to Jesse F. Hammon to keep a coffee-house, with my reasons for refusing to sign the same.

my reasons for refusing to sign the same.

Jesse F. Hanmon is the day-watchman in the first ward. It is true that in the ordinance defining oaths of police, it is not expressly said that a watchman shall not keep a coffee-house or any other house either allowed or forbidden by law to be kept by any citizen. But coffee-houses are subject to prosecutions for various offenses, which it is the duty of watchers to detect and resent either to the relies any citizen. But coffee-houses are subject to prosecutions for various offenses, which it is the duty of watchmen to detect and present, either to the police court, or to the grand jury in the city court. Put a watchman in a business or suffer him to become interested in a business which it is his duty to watch and complain against, and you lead him into temptation, you peril his oath, because you put his midvidual interest at variance with his public duty. You have, say 40 watchmen; if one has a right to keep a coffee-house eqality settles the like right in favor of all. The whole 40 may become coffee-house keepers. Then who shall watch and report their delinquencies. To make exceptions in favor of Mr. Hammon, or any one else, is to make the Council of a cicus to the charge of partiality. Coffee-house and tavern keepers and ne man holding a license and liable to indictment or presentment can serve on the grand jury, because his interest is varient from that of the city, and the law will not expose to so severe a temptation. So no public officer, whose duty it is to watch and present the offenders in any particular business should be allowed to follow such, business. I withhold my approval from this license and shall on principle adhere to it.

The city pays her watchmen $2 per day and by her contract with them is entitled to their exclusive attention and service. If that wages can't pay for their unembarrassed time, let it be increased to the attention and service. If that wages can't pay for their unembarrassed time, let it be increased to the present watchmen or let them resign and those be employed with whom it is not necessary to embark in a business which is or may be in conflict with their duties as watchmen. Mr. Hammon is a first their duties as watchmen. rate watchman and may be proof against temptation, yet, if a license be granted to him men of weaker virtue may apply for license, and, in the conflict of interest with their duty, fall into the evil to which they are thereby tempted.

In conclusion, to set this matter at rest, I recommend that the Council so amend ordinance No. 302 set of forbid watchmen from engaging in any business which is subject to presentment, indictment, or fine in the city or police court of Louisville, and which is under the watch and report of any branch of the city government, and make it the duty of any watchman now holding coffee-house license to give my his office or his license.

or the three days ending on Wednesday evening: for the three days ending on Wednesday evening:

Receipts of the three days foot up about 3,000 bales. This, together with the liberal stock in warehouses, form rather an over supply for the market, and there is less buoyancy at the close. Demand is more moderate and steady as last noticed, Monday over 400 bales sold at $125@$140, and two lots finely cleaned and of choice quality at $149@$150. Yesterday the prices of the day preceding were hardly sustained, and large supplies were on sale on the levee, part of which went to store. Sales included about 350 bales at $125 @$135. At the close, we report the market heavy, with sales of 27 bales at $115, 140 at $120, 34 at $127, 39 at $128 and 191 at $130 $2 ton.

CINCINNATI, July 17, P. M. Flour scarce and firmer anfi prices more regular—sales of 900 bbls at $6 25@$6 40, closing at $6 40 for good superfine: receipts only 200 bbls. Oats active at 50c. with none arriving. Corn scarce and saleable at 75c. Whisky is dul and demand limited at 25%@26c; receipts very light. Bacon firm and prices unaltered. Linseed oil is in good demand—sales of 86 bbls from store at 86@87%c. and 20 bbls from canal-boat at 85c. Cheese firm and scarce at 9@9%c. Groceries unchanged.

NEW YORK, July 17, P. M. Cotton market closed firm—sales of 250 bales at 15%c for Orleans middling and 15c for upland middling—an advance of 1/6. Flour firm—sales of 11,500 bush. The market opened to-day rather dull, and has continued so; prices have fallen off about %c $\overline{\text{th}}$ b on all qualities. Some $600 head were sold yesterday at $\overline{\text{th}}$ 150 cm all qualities, which are about the prices of to-day with a few sales of the best stock at $113 \overline{\text{ch}}$ 21c-the latter an extreme figure. The latter and extreme figure about the average. Some lots, as usual, being very fine cattle. The attendance was fair, though not so large as last week, more cattle having been bought up in the earlier part of the week. It is thought that quite a large number would be left over, unless the prices are put down about $10 \overline{\text{th}}$ 15 lower, and even then, it is doubtful whether the supply becomes exhaused till a late hour.

Cows and calves continue dull at about previous quotations.

ions. Veal caives and sheep and lambs are without material hange, either in demand or price. Swine are scarce and higher—7% being asked for good orn-fed.

Bagging and Bale Rope-For Kentucky bagging there has been only a limited retail demand at about 14@17c # yard according to brands, terms of sale, &c. India bagging has been more inquired for, owing to favorable accounts from the Eastern markets, and 1,000 to 1,300 bales have found purchasers, nearly all at 13%c. cash or short time, adding interest, holders now asking a further advance. Bale rope is in limited request but steady at about 9% @9%c for hand mape and 10@10%c 7 to for machine.
Coffee We have again to notice a steady market for Rio Coffee and also a fair demand, the sales of the week having reached some 60,000 bags (including about 4,000 on Thurs-Leached some on one page distinging and a some stone on Thursday), at a range of 10@He, according to quality, though mostly at the outside rate. These purchases are understood to be nearly all for consumption. There have been no further eargoes received, and the stock remaining in first and second hands, yesterday, was about 106,000 bags, against some 25,000 at the corresponding period last season.

Money market—We have no improvement to notice in the condition of the money market since our review of last Saturday morning, the causes for the prevailing stringency, then particularly referred to, being still in operation to a very great ex ent. The applications at the banks for discounts continue to be large, and much in excess of the business which those institutions are enabled to do, and there is a very active demand in consequence for money out-doors, and at unusually high rates.

Some few sales of strictly first class paper are occasionally made at 10 per cent, but in general borrowers have to submit to a higher figure. Fair or second class we have to quote at 12@15, and other grades from 15 to 18 per cent per annum.
